Thousands work at new GTP plant site

It's not every day a piece of surplus county property wags its tail before the Orange County Commissioners Court. But on Tuesday, the court officially declared K-9 Phoenix as surplus property. The court agreed to give the dog its handler, Sheriff's Deputy Brandon Mojica for the rest of Phoenix's life. Chief Deputy Mark Dubois said Phoenix had a knee injury and surgery, however he is not up to working active law enforcement duty.

Nearly 4,500 people are now working at the site for the new $8.5 billion Golden Triangle Polymers plant on Highway 87 South. The Heather Betancourth with the company told Orange County Commissioners Court that on Tuesday during a quarterly report on local hiring and purchases.

The Chevron/Phillips/Qatar Energy project was officially announced two years ago. The county spent a few years negotiating a tax abatement contract for the plant. The contract included the corporation adopting a Local First program to help people in the region get jobs and for local businesses of all sizes to get the plant's purchases. The quarterly reports are part of the contract.

Betancourth gave a grand total of local employment at 1,803. However, County Judge John Gothia said "there's more. I see them every day."

Betancourth said the total employment including people from outside the nine-county region considered local, is a 4,500.

Gothia made the quip because he lives in Bridge City. The main thoroughfare from Orange to Bridge City is past the plant's construction site. Traffic between the two cities during rush hours is getting to be notoriously slow with all the work.

The latest report covers the third quarter from July 1 through September 30. During the quarter, the company added another 36 qualified local vendors or suppliers for a total off 132.

The local region is considered Orange, Jefferson, Newton, Jasper, Hardin, Tyler, and Chambers counties, plus the Bolivar Peninsula area of Galveston County.

New blood, family legacy usher in new life for OCP

PENNY LELEUX For The Record

It has been a long haul since Orange Community Players, Inc. was forced out of its original home on Division Street after TS Harvey flooded the theater for a second time in 2017. They bought the old Brown Twin Cinema building and have worked on it through the years trying to get up and running again. They were almost there, hoping to open this past September, when the HVAC system went out. The AC is fixed and they are down to only needing a counter for the concession stand, rails on the outer steps, and handicapped spots marked in the parking lot. It's so close, they can taste it. They are hoping the Mystery Dinner Theater production of "Next of Kin" scheduled for this weekend at the Orange Train Depot will raise the funds to get them across the line so they can open in the new year.

The husband-and-wife team of Rico and Cydney Vásquez direct the wacky comedy that will include audience participation. It's a party. Rico said if the audience needs to get up and get something else to eat in the middle of it, "do it." Treat is as if it is a regular gathering of friends. A good portion of the show will be improved to provide that intermingling with the guests.

"We can't control what the audience is gonna say especially when they're about three or four glasses in and that's the fun. That's why we like to do the murder mysteries, the dinner theaters," said Rico.

The last dinner theater they did was in 2021 or 2022, after the pandemic.

"It was a 1920s murder mystery, like a mobster murder, and that was all the old OCP," said Cydney. "It was a lot of the board members and a lot of the people who grew up doing it, but you know this is a fresh new take." The Vásquez couple directed the earlier production too. It was held at the Brown Center and sold out.

Auditions for this show were held before Halloween and they have been practicing at First Methodist Church in Orange.

The story it is about Hamilton "Big Daddy" Sugarbaker. He's having a party where he unfortunately meets his demise. Who killed big daddy? Everyone has a reason.

Cast breakdown:

Alaniz Vásquez as Hamilton "Big Daddy" Sugarbaker, a rich man from Atlanta, Georgia who moved here six months ago after the disastrous failure of his second marriage--to a woman many years his junior. His first wife, Babette, died giving birth to Aaron.

Ian Shaw as Aaron Sugarbaker, Big Daddy's youngest son. He's a struggling poet who's embittered by his lack of success, but still believes that he's a true artiste.

Nate Brown as Rhett Sugarbaker, Big Daddy's oldest son. A smarmy, slick, dirty-dealing, unethical businessman. He'll do anything to make money and what better way to make money than

Sales drop in Orange but not county

MARGARET TOAL For The Record

The city of Orange continues to see big drops in sales tax returns while other cities, plus the county, are seeing sales tax increases for the year.

The Texas Comptroller has sent the sales tax payments to the entities, which mainly use the sales tax incomes for general operations.

Orange County has a half cent per dollar sales tax and is up for the calendar year, receiving a total of $7.73 million compared to $7.5 million for the same time last year. That's an increase of 3.39. However, the county was down 6.74 percent from September this year, getting $666,506 this year compared to $714,733 last year.

The city of Orange, with a 1.5 percent sales tax, dropped 11.23 percent for the month of September with $722,310 for this year and $813,718 for September 2023. The city is down 23.35 percent, for the calendar, a loss of more than $2 million. The city is at

Dow Celebrates Apprenticeship Week

Special to the Record Christina Babcock

Each year, Dow's U.S. Apprenticeship Program attracts a significant number of applicants eager to gain on-the-job experience while earning a company paid associate degree in highly sought-after technical fields. Registered with the United States Department of Labor, the program offers practical experience for those aiming to pursue a career in manufacturing. Apprentices enroll in degree programs offered through Lamar State College Orange (LSCO) or Lamar Institute of Technology (LIT), both of which partner with Dow Sabine River Operations and Beaumont Operations.

Chase Brumley, a current apprentice, expressed his gratitude for the program: "This program opens up a new career path for people who might otherwise never get the opportunity to work as a process operator."

Robert Lovelace, Early Career Leader for the East

Texas Hub (Dow Sabine River & Beaumont Operations), highlights that "the biggest advantage for these students is gaining hands-on experience at a local facility during their studies."

The program is structured so apprentices are paid for 40 hours per week, including benefits, tuition, and books, while they complete a two-year associate degree program and receive on-the-job training at Dow Sabine River Operations and Beaumont Operations.

Picking the perfect Thanksgiving turkey

Susan Himes
Texas A&M AgriLife

The turkey is the star of the show for most Thanksgiving tables and cooking your bird to perfection can seem hard. However, choosing the right bird at the store should be easy.

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service poultry expert Brett Meisinger, lecturer and collegiate poultry judging team coach in the Texas A&M College of Agriculture and Life Sciences Department of Poultry Science "talked turkey" with us and answered some questions consumers may have while searching for the perfect Thanksgiving turkey.

Picking the turkey centerpiece for the Thanksgiving table can be the easiest part with a few tips from a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service expert.

What size turkey do I need to buy?

Choose the weight of your Thanksgiving turkey based on the number of guests you plan to invite. The safest method for choosing the size of the bird is to purchase 1.5 pounds of whole bird per guest. On average, each person consumes 8 ounces of turkey. If you don't need a whole bird for your Thanksgiving crowd, you can choose a smaller product option such as a turkey breast.

What do labels tell us and what do the words mean?

Labels simply allow consumers to have an option when putting food on the table. There is no right or wrong label to source as the cost and visual appearance of packaging can also impact consumer preferences.

Free-range is a common label seen on poultry products. Free range means farmers give turkeys access to the outdoors as they grow. Organically produced birds have free-range access, yet not all free-range birds are grown organically. Free-range and organic labels can include a variety of rearing practices for turkeys. Organic production sets standards for feed ingredients, antibiotic use, housing designs and labeling. The U.S. Department of Agriculture outlines the rules in its Guidelines for Organic Poultry Certification.

How early do I need to buy my turkey and when do I need to defrost it?

Buy early for the best selection. A frozen bird can keep for over a year so there really is no such thing as "too early" to buy. Consumers can freeze fresh turkeys for storage also if they wish.

Plan for defrosting time when making your purchase. The recommended method for defrosting for food safety is from the freezer to the fridge. Allow 24 hours for each 4-5 pounds of bird weight in a refrigerator 40 degrees or lower. Once refrigerator-thawed, a turkey can be left in the refrigerator for one to two days before cooking.

Is there a nutritional difference between fresh and frozen?

There is no nutritional difference between fresh and frozen turkeys at the grocery store. Most whole turkeys at the grocery store are frozen. This is the easiest way to ship and store them for sale.

Farm-to-table style means smaller producers can provide fresh options. However, they cost more and these products are not available until just before the holiday season. However, consumers can freeze them for storage if they wish.

Is my turkey Texas-grown?

Odds are good that the turkey you find in Texas supermarkets has come from out of state. Minnesota, North Carolina and Arkansas are the top states for turkey production.

Texas does not have large-scale commercial turkey farms. The 4-H and FFA youth of Texas produce the most turkeys in the state for major stock shows and judging contests. But you can reach out to local markets, butchers or specialty shops to determine if they have locally grown turkeys.

During the quarter, another 17 approved engineering, procurement, and construction companies drew in $8 million from the project. GTP spent $8.7 million with local companies previously contracted.

Since the project was announced two years ago, a grand total of $355.5 million has been spent on local contracted work, not including the small vendors and businesses.

A total of nearly $1.3 million were spent during the quarter on small purchases with local vendors and businesses. Lists of the local businesses include a wide variety of restaurants, printing, pest control, plumbing, printing, appliances, photographers, and rental companies.

Bethancourth said GTP will be hosting a holiday mixer exclusively for Orange County businesses on the approved vendor list so then can meet the company's new procurement official.

Precinct 1 Commissioner Johnny Trahan was back at his first meeting after being hospitalized getting an internal infection that required surgery. He thanked everyone for the calls, texts, cards, and emails he has received during his recuperation.

Business included the presentation of the Sheriff's Office's retiring K-9 Phoenix, who was injured. Deputy Brandon Mojica, the dog's handler, is now his official owner.

Judge Gothia reported the tax assessor-collector's office received $2.29 million in back taxes last month with the county's share as $298,876. The county office contracts to handle tax property collections for all local entities. The 2025 taxes will be due January 31.

County Maintenance Director Kurt Guidry reported the county is going to save about $50,000 by taking donation of a generator from the McLewis Volunteer Fire Department, which is part of OC Emergency Services District 4. He said the county has been looking to get a generator for the elections administration office. The one being donated was purchased with grant money in 2010 and has been used only 69 hours. The generator has been sitting inside a building and not outside. The project will cost the county the expense of getting the generator hooked up to natural gas. Guidry said natural gas lines run along the streets near the elections office and should not be a problem for connection.

Deaths & Memorials

Stella Mae "Katie" Mulhollan Bridge City

Stella Mae "Katie" Mulhollan

Stella Mae "Katie" Mulhollan of Bridge City left this earth on Saturday, Nov. 2, 2024, after a courageous battle with Alzheimer's disease.

Services for Katie were held under the direction of Claybar Funeral Home in Bridge City. There was a visitation for family and friends on Thursday, Nov. 7 at 10am, with funeral services immediately following at 11. Pastor Josh Fults of First Baptist Church Orange officiated. Katie was laid to rest at Autumn Oaks Memorial Park in Orange.

Katie was born Aug. 15, 1935, in Hamlin, Texas, to Eunice and William Hamric. At an early age, she decided she didn't care for her given name and would thereafter be known as "Katie." Her passion in high school was twirling; she was a proud member of the renown Bengal Guards Drum and Bugle Corps.

On April 11, 1953, she married Stewart Charles Mulhollan in Orange, Texas. They eventually made their home in the Bridge City area, where they raised their five children.

After Stewart's death in 1990, she began her second act as a full time Maw Maw and avid bridge player. She loved weekly gatherings with her dear friends, affectionately known as "the Bridge Ladies," for more than 40 years.

Katie loved science fiction - specifically Star Trek, hosting family dinners, and was an inspired snacker - always ready for "a teaspoon of ice cream" or "two or three french fries."

She never met a stranger - she loved to talk to people and share stories about her life and family. Until her disease intervened, she was a member of St. Paul Methodist Church in Bridge City, delighting in fellowship.

Katie wasn't just a typical mother and grandmother; she was arts and crafts director, chef, baker, confectioner, chauffeur, and teacher. She was a model homemaker and the world's best giver of hugs. She lived to serve her family and friends, forged her own happiness through that of others.

Katie was predeceased by her parents, her husband Stewart, and her siblings Richard Hamric, Juancy Cannifax, Billy Hamric, and Addie (Wiggy) McDonald.

She is survived by her son Chuck Mulhollan and wife Kellie, her daughters Debbie Lyles and husband Glen (with whom she lived for many years), Cindy Mims and husband Ralf, Jan Akers and husband Scott, and Leslie Potts and husband David. Also surviving are her eight grandchildren Chad Porterfield, Charla LaRocca, Lee Mims and wife Katie, Tara Allen and husband Thomas, Laci Gibbens and husband Logan, Michael Schrieber, Brandon Lyles and wife Makayla, and Nicole Davidson and husband Jimmy, as well as 16 great grandchildren. She was also "Maw Maw" to many more, hosting sleepovers for friends of her grandchildren, including many in the neighborhood. Katie was loved and treasured by many and will be missed greatly.

Serving as pallbearers were Glen Lyles, Scott Akers, David Potts, Lee Mims, Michael Schrieber and Brandon Lyles. Honorary pallbearers are Chuck Mulhollan and Ralf Mims.

stealing from his father's bottle capping company in Atlanta.

Amy Carroll as Bobbie Joe Butler, Big Daddy's nurse confidante, and friend. She would do anything for the man who saved her from certain death five years ago.

Mik C. Koats as Savannah Sugarbaker, Big Daddy's neurotic second wife who's prone to drastic mood swings and irrational, insane, behavior.

Codie Vásquez as Philly Sugarbaker, Big Daddy's drunkard of a sister. Philly's had a sad, miserable life--she even spent some time in prison for robbery, theft, even prostitution.

Ashley Guillory as Scarlett Sugarbaker, Rhett's selfish, social-climbing wife who tries to be classy and fails - miserably. She comes from the wrong side of the tracks and it shows.

Rachele Allen as Melanie Sugarbaker, Aaron's supportive but very eccentric wife. She's an "interpretive dancer." She and Aaron snobbishly cling to a lifestyle neither can truly afford.

Crystal Kelley as Edwina Edwin, Big Daddy's accountant. She's an obsessive compulsive who has devoted her entire working life to Big Daddy. She knows what he's worth and expects that she'll receive a sizable chunk of his money in exchange for her loyalty.

Unless their name is Vásquez, the cast is new to the local audience.

"That's what we've been trying to do this whole time... get fresh people to get more interest because if it's the same 10 people doing it, people get tired of it," said Rico. "Here we are like on the cusp of opening the theater, like a new generation, which is amazing and all of them are just incredibly excited for us to get open so they can start doing shows in the theater."

Alaniz and Codie

Vásquez are Rico's parents. Participation in OCP has been a family affair for over 20 years and they are proud of the leadership role Rico and daughter-in-law Cydney have taken in the organization.

"It's all about passing the torch and it's always been about making sure that theater continues on to the next generation and the next and that has been our mission statement for the last 20 years, to keep local community theater alive," said Alaniz. "You can't do that if you don't pass the torch."

Codie's mother, Judy White is also involved in OCP, so they are four generations deep in the organization.

Next of Kin presents this weekend, 7:37 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 23 and a matinee at 2:37 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 24 at the Orange Train Depot. Doors open one hour before the performance. Tickets are $40 and can be purchased online.

CAN PHELAN SURVIVE AS SPEAKER

The race for speaker of the Texas House has narrowed, pitting Beaumont Republican Dade Phelan, who has held the gavel since 2021, against Rep. David Cook, R-Mansfield, who has emerged as the challenger designated by a group disillusioned with House leadership. Phelan says he has the votes to be reelected to a third term as speaker. The speaker race typically takes off in the fall, but the quest to replace Phelan by his critics got started before the last legislative session even ended. Critics blamed Phelan for the House's impeachment of Attorney General Ken Paxton and for the deadlock between the House and Senate on property taxes, the border and education. That included the House's ultimate failure to pass Gov. Greg Abbott's school vouchers measure in November. Paxton, Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick and former President Donald Trump endorsed Phelan's primary opponent in an attempt to oust the speaker, buoyed by millions of dollars spent by organizations from outside his district and outside the state. Between the flanked attacks from Abbott's and Paxton's respective camps, nine Republicans lost their primaries, and Phelan and seven others were forced into primary runoffs. Although Phelan survived his primary runoff at the end of May, six of the seven others lost theirs. Phelan's camp says they're confident he has the votes. "The path to the speakership is a matter of simple math," Phelan's spokeswoman Cait Wittman, said to the Tribune. Speaker Phelan has the clear majority votes needed to be the speaker today and will have the clear majority support needed to become speaker again come January." Phelan has the support of an inner circle of loyal GOP lieutenants, and he would likely have the support of most, but not all, of the 60-plus Democrats. Phelan has been the only Republican speaker candidate this cycle who would continue the longstanding practice of appointing Democrats to committee chairmanships as part of a bipartisan leadership team. The combination of a minority of Republicans plus Democrats would likely get Phelan to 76 votes. Texas law calls on the secretary of state to preside until the election of the House speaker. However, if the secretary of state is absent, the attorney general would preside, which could leave Paxton, Phelan's No. 1 political rival, with the gavel as Phelan fights on the floor to retain his speakership.

C'EST TOUT DISMAY INSIDE DOJ AFTER TRUMP TAPS GAETZ

According to the Associated Press, Donald Trump's choice of Matt Gaetz to be attorney general has many Justice Department employees reeling, worried not only about their own jobs but the future of the agency that the Trump loyalist has railed against. The president-elect's pick of the Florida Republican sent a shock throughout the Cabinet department, considering Gaetz's lack of experience in law enforcement and the fact that he was once the subject of a federal sex trafficking investigation. It is unclear whether Gaetz has enough Republican support in the Senate to be confirmed. Trump has broached the possibility of bypassing the traditional confirmation process by pushing through his nominees while the Senate is in recess. Gaetz faces continued scrutiny over a federal trafficking investigation. House Speaker Mike Johnson said Friday that he will "strongly request" that the House committee not release the results of its investigation, rebuffing senators who are demanding access now that Gaetz is Trump's pick for attorney general. The department runs on career employees, people who are apolitical in work, and politics aside, if all of these people are so dismayed at the selection of the attorney general that they leave, who will carry out the functions of the department. The prospect that the department could be led by "somebody who is highly compromised" and also may have a "personal vendetta" against it.*I've got to shut down, times up. That old radio enriched our lives

Remembering Roy Acuff and Hank Williams

• A Two Part Series

DOWN LIFE'S HIGHWAY
Roy Dunn - Columnist
For The Record

"I wondered home one day, where I used to run and play, only to find I was too late. Old Rover was gone from his pallet on the lawn, the old folks had died and gone away."

Jimmy Rogers, the singing brakeman, blues and yodel man died about the time I was born but his songs lived on for years. They still bounce around in my head today. As a child, I met a young hobo who played guitar and sang Jimmie's songs. There is one song he sang that I've spent a lifetime looking for its origin.

The few words I recall are, "I wondered home one day, where I used to run and play, only to find I was too late. Old Rover was gone from his pallet on the lawn, the old folks had died and gone away." My Uncle Dan had bought us an old radio. We didn't have electricity so it was a radio with fuses, tubes and I suppose a battery. When we held the ground-wire, the volume went up. The old radio became our entertainment and connection to the outside world. We sat on Grandma's porch at night and listened to the music from the Grand Ole Opry and the Louisiana Hayride.

Roy Acuff was named the King of Country Music by baseball great Dizzy Dean. Roy Claxton Acuff emerged as a star during the early 1940's. He was born in Maynardville, Tennessee on Sept. 15, 1903. Acuff helped intensify the star system at the Grand Ole Opry and remained its leading personality until his death. He co-founded Acuff-Rose Publications with song writer Fred Rose thus laying an important cornerstone of the Nashville music industry. Acuff came from a rural folkbased background.

His father farmed while also serving as Maynardville's post master and as pastor of the town's Baptist church. As a youth Acuff soaked in music of all sorts but his real love at the time was sports; in high school, he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. Acuff gained 13 varsity letters in high school. After graduation, Acuff turned down a scholarship to nearby Carson-Newman College. He played semi-professional baseball and boxed informally.

Early in 1929, major league baseball scouts recruited Acuff for training camp. The King of Country Music could well have become another Lou Gehrig or Babe Ruth.

Eventually, while playing minor league ball and being considered for the New York Yankees, a severe sunstroke put an end to his career. In the early 1940's, Acuff zoomed to the top of his field in music, with the help from the WSM 50,000-watt transmitter. Fast selling songbooks, hit records such as "Wabash Cannon Ball," "The Great Speckled Bird," "Wreck on the Highway," and "Fireball Mail" and mushrooming gate receipts on the road all boosted his income.

During the '40's Acuff's recordings became so popular that he headed Frank Sinatra in some major music polls and reportedly caused Japanese troops to yell. "To hell with Roosevelt to hell with Babe Ruth, to hell with Roy Acuff," as they banzai charged at Okinawa. He unsuccessfully ran for the governorship of Tennessee on the Republican ticket in 1948. Acuff made his first international tour with an Opry troupe that performed at U.S. military bases in Europe in 1949. In 1971, Acuff received a substantial boost by participating in the famous "Will the Circle Be Unbroken" album project which featured the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and a number of country artists.

Other testaments to his continuing popularity were the 1974 chart making records, "Back in the Country" and "Old Time Sunshine Song," written by than Acuff-Rose singer-songwriter Eddy Raven, a native of Lafayette, LA and cousin of Doug Kershaw. Acuff's tremendous contribution to country music was recognized in November 1962 when he became the first living musician to be honored as a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame. He continued to appear regularly on the Grand Ole Opry throughout the '70's and '80's. He died on November 23, 1992, following a short illness. He brought sunshine to this kid over that old radio.

balancing school and work helped me become more resilient and learn to prioritize and maintain focus under pressure."

Approximately 87% of participants in Dow's U.S. Apprenticeship Program transition into full-time roles within 24-30 months. Lovelace cites college-readiness, ambition, reliability, and teamwork as key attributes that make a candidate stand out. The program often enrolls graduates from Orange County high schools, where Dow actively engages with Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs and serves on advisory boards. Many applicants also have a military background. Shanita Roberson, currently a student in the Dow U.S. Apprenticeship Program, shared, "Getting into the program has meant everything to me. Transitioning from military life to civilian life has been challenging, but this opportunity has been a life changing experience."

Dow's U.S. Apprenticeship Program not only facilitates 'earning while learning' but also addresses the retirement surge and contributes to upskilling the next generation. Those selected for the apprenticeship program have a high school diploma or GED with a minimum GPA of 2.5, coursework completed in high school algebra and can obtain a TWIC card. Completed chemistry or physics coursework is also preferred.

A current apprentice and recent high school graduate, Ezekiel Yanez Macias said, "many students in high school strived to become process operators. I applied for Dow's U.S. Apprenticeship Program to make my parents proud and prove their struggles were worthwhile."

To apply for Dow's U.S. Apprenticeship Program, visit the Dow Careers webpage in January, when the listing will be open for 3 to 4 weeks.

It was a rough weekend for local teams as only school made it through the bi-district round of the playoffs. West Orange-Stark advances to the area round this week, while Bridge City, LC-M, Orangefield and Vidor all had their football season come to a sudden end this past Friday.

WO-S Mustangs blasts Sweeny

The Mustangs traveled to New Caney this past Thursday and took care of business as West Orange-Stark came away with a 41-14 victory over the Sweeny Bulldogs in the Bi-District round of the Class 4A Division 2 playoffs.

Sweeny struck first with a 73-yard touchdown run, but it was all Mustangs after that as quarterback Marcus Turner Jr. took charge with touchdown runs of 42 yards and 97 yards in the first quarter. Turner would add a 23-yard touchdown pass and another 11-yard rushing touchdown, both in the third quarter. Running back Khelvy Jefferson had rushing touchdowns 2-yards and 28-yards to put the game away.

The No. 9 state-ranked Mustangs move on to the area round of the playoffs and will have a rematch with the No. 10 state-ranked Waco La Vega Pirates (8-3) at 7 p.m., Friday, Nov. 22, at Bulldog Stadium in Magnolia. The Pirates defeated La Grange, 56-2, in the bi-district round of the playoffs this past weekend.

LC-M season ends with loss

The Little Cypress-Mauriceville Battlin' Bears season came to a halt this past Friday as the Lindale Eagles left Battlin' Bear Stadium with a 49-21 victory.

The Eagles offense generated more than 500 yards of offense, while its defense held the Bears offense to 344 total yards on the night with nearly half of that coming in the final minutes of the fourth quarter.

The Eagles scored first on a 20-yard pass, but the Bears responded on the next drive with a 40-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Braylen Lewis to receiver Evan Worster. Lindale added two more touchdowns to take a 21-7 lead at half before breaking the game wide-open in the third quarter with three touchdowns, an interception, and an inside kick recovery.

LC-M added a 2-yard touchdown run by Worster and 48-yard touchdown catch by Keagan Cockerham in the final 4 minutes of the fourth quarter.

The Bears finish the season with an 8-3 record and are the champs of District 10-4A Division 1.

Second-half surge dooms Bobcats

Orangefield appeared to be in charge at halftime, as the Bobcats led Fairfield 21-7 at the end of the first quarter and at the break, but it all changed in a second-half shootout that left Orangefield on the losing end. The Bobcats season came to an end Friday night with a 49-42 loss to the Fairfield Eagles.

Quarterback Carson Gonzalez put the Bobcats on the board first with a 1-yard touchdown run and a 7-0 lead. Fairfield tied the game on a big pass, but the Bobcats would lead 21-7 at halftime courtesy of two Mason Manning rushing touchdowns.

The third quarter started with a bang as Fairfield returned the kickoff for a touchdown to cut the Bobcats lead 21-14 and then tie the game on its next possession.

Manning added two more rushing touchdowns in the third and fourth quarter, and defensive back Zach Morrow had a

In every sport there are different levels of accomplishment, different levels of skill. In baseball you have rookie leagues, minor leagues, and then you have the guys in the majors who are at the top of the food chain so to speak. Far too many times in magazines the writers take for granted that everyone out there fishes just like they do. Nothing could be farther from the truth if you just get right down to it.

On more than a regular basis I get asked about certain techniques or how to use different lures by fishermen who genuinely want to get better. Each individual has strengths and weaknesses and for some the thought of fishing with a lure many of us take for granted is a daunting task. I can remember when I was really fishing a bunch of freshwater lakes and all I could think of was catching bass. There were different times during the year that I could catch fish with the best of them, throwing spinnerbaits and topwaters along with Texas rigged worms were right down my alley. Now my baits of choice didn't always work and other techniques were needed to catch fish, at that point I had a problem.

For the life of me I could not fish a jig, I felt like I was suffocating it was so slow. Finally I made myself take only a tackle box full of jigs so I had nothing else to fish or change to and was forced to fish only a jig all day long. The radical thinking proved to be a good idea as I finally became better at the art of jig fishing, I still don't like it but at least I can do it.

Saltwater anglers have similar difficulties and for many more than you would think it's a real problem. I can't tell you how many people have asked me for my opinion on how to fish a Corky, it's way more than you would believe. For many situations just like this there are some excellent alternatives that often times will work even better than the lure you struggle with. For example we'll just use the Corky since we already mentioned it. The Corky is easily one of the most recognizable lures on the gulf coast, especially here in Texas where it's almost considered royalty by many.

For all those who praise this lure for it's fish catching ability there are just as many who curse it because they can't get a grip on how to properly fish the bait. Well for all those of you who fall into the struggling category let me introduce you to "plan B", shallow running crankbaits or stick baits as they are also known are just what the doctor ordered.

For years these baits have been a staple of freshwater fishermen all over the country, they have a subtle motion that really attract vicious strikes and can make even the most finicky fish turn on one in a violent reaction strike. I have really become a fan of these baits as well as other crankbaits for saltwater use. Crankbaits are usually categorized by the depth that they will run, some shallow models swim just under the surface to about 1 foot.

Other big billed models will plow down to depths of over 20 feet if need be. My favorites are the 1 to 4 foot models, they are roughly 4 inches in length and have a small bill that creates a tight wobble when reeled down or twitched below the

Gulf Coast Fishing Reports

• Sabine Lake

GOOD. 80 degrees. Freshwater will push the fish and bait to higher salinity areas in the marshes and Sabine Lake. Before the influx of freshwater in the Neches River, redfish were being caught on the points and bayous with live shrimp under a popping cork.

As the freshwater moved we moved south focusing efforts on the bulkheads and rock piles for catches of redfish, drum and sheepshead. Fish were stacked up on the buoys and feeding on bait on the shell bottom. Limits of redfish could be had in the ICW with live shrimp under a popping cork on rock piles, bulkheads, shell flats and buoys.

Fewer catches of trout. Sabine Lake was rough and muddy due to the northwest winds, but these conditions should improve after the wind lays. Some birds are still working in the lake, so fish under the birds.

Report by Captain Randy Foreman, Captain Randy's Guide Service Sabine Lake.

• Bolivar

GOOD. 75 degrees. Water temperature staying in the upper 70s, but should cool after the forecasted north winds. Water levels swapping back-and-forth this week between super high and average low tides. Anglers are still catching plenty of redfish everywhere. There are plenty of big croakers along with sand trout, black drum, speckled trout, and crabs caught along the jetty with a few small stingrays and sharks. Reminder, flounder are catch and release only through December 14. The surf is producing lots of redfish and black drum, a few gafftop, lots of small stingrays, and bigger sharks along the whole peninsula with high activity towards Gilchrist/High Island mainly. Report by Captain Shane Rilat, North Jetty Bait Camp

• Trinity Bay

SLOW. 78 degrees. Birds are working in most areas of this big bay. One will have to be persistent in order to cull out the keeper size fish. Waders are catching better quality fish. Spoils islands producing decent numbers of black drum, a few redfish and some speckled trout. Best on live shrimp and soft plastics under birds. Report by Captain David Dillman, Galveston Bay Charter Fishing.

• East Galveston Bay

GOOD. 78 degrees. A few more slot-sized speckled trout, black drum, and redfish being caught on live shrimp, croakers, and finger mullet. A few reports of good fishing by the old broken bridge, Siever's Cut, and near the boat ramp by Rollover. Water clarity is still extremely good for East Galveston Bay. We have experienced some stronger north to northeast winds this past week, limiting us to fishing back in the marsh and back lakes most of the time, as well as the better protected shorelines of the intracoastal. We have fished flats with scattered shell in areas with good tide movement, and bait present, resulting in good numbers of trout. Redfish have still been around grass lines where nervous bait is close by. Imitation Shrimp lures under popping corks with 12 inch leaders have still been producing very well for our anglers, as well as Gulp Shrimp. The crowds have thinned, so grab your friends and family and get out and enjoy God's beauty in the great state of Texas. Report by Captain Jeff Brandon, Get the Net Guide Service, LLC.

speckled trout. Birds working in the bay over smaller specs and sand trout. Chocolate Bayou and Bay producing decent numbers of speckled trout and redfish over shell.

Report by Captain David Dillman, Galveston Bay Charter Fishing.

• Freeport

GOOD. 78 degrees. Birds have been working over trout and redfish feeding on shrimp in the mornings and in the evenings in Chocolate Bay, Bastrop Bay, and upper West Galveston Bay live shrimp under a four horseman pop n corks have been working well or gulp with 1/16 ounce jig head. The old river been good with trout, redfish, sheepshead and mangroves snapper.

The river has been good for trout, redfish, drum, sand trout and big croaker using either live or dead shrimp. Report by Captain Jake Brown, Flattie Daddy Fishing Adventures

• Texas City

GOOD. 77 degrees. Bull redfish run is on in full force, with good catches off the rock and along the Galveston jetties. Bolivar Wells are producing a few bull redfish and some oversized black drum. Best bite on cut mullet, fresh dead shad and live crab. Report by Captain David Dillman, Galveston Bay Charter Fishing.

Anglers are still catching plenty of speckled trout, redfish, and black drum with the occasional sand trout, gafftop and big croaker. Successful wade fishing around Mosquito Island and inside the Moses Lake Tidal Gate in the late afternoons. Along the dike has been productive.

• Toledo Bend Fishing Report

FAIR. Water normal stain; 80 degrees; 4.18 feet below pool. Cooler weather is finally here and this first touch of fall will help to improve the bite. Shallow bass are still best with swim jigs, swimbaits, topwater, and frogs. The bite in the creek should start this week on lipless, square bill crankbaits and small spinnerbaits in 4-8 feet of water. We did get some rain, but not enough to muddy up the creeks. There are numbers of deep fish just not quality, but this should improve as the temperature drops on spoons, tail spins and dropshots. Report by Stephen Johnston, Johnston Fishing.

• Sam Rayburn Fishing Reports

GOOD. Water slightly stained; 72 degrees; 2.43 feet below pool. Expect the lake level to continue to drop slowly through the winter. Shallow bass are centered around shoreline brush and hay grass along with high spots, shallow ditches and creek channel swings. These fish can be caught on Texas rigs, wacky rigs, shallow water crankbaits and topwaters. There is a large population of schooling bass heavily chasing bait balls around main lake ledges in 17-22 feet, main lake drains in 10-17 feet, and main lake and secondary points. Cast a dropshot, Carolina rig, 1/2- 3/4 ounce, or deep diving crankbait. Report by Hank Harrison, Double H Precision Guide Service.

Cardinals push Pine Tree in loss

The Bridge City Cardinals traveled to Longview to face the No. 7 team in the state, and the Cardinals gave Pine Tree everything it could handle in a 35-28 loss at Pirates Stadium.

Pine Tree showcased its big play capabilities when the Pirates scored on a 67-yard run to take a 7-0 lead in the first quarter. The Pirates extended the lead to 14-0 when Pine Tree scored on a 80-yard catch and run early in the second quarter.

The Cardinals offense demonstrated its resilience with a nice, sustained drive that was capped off by a 15-yard run by Ashton Sumrall to cut the Pine Tree lead to 14-7.

Another Pine Tree series resulted in another big play as the Pirates connected on a 54-yard catch and run up the sideline for a 21-7 advantage late in the second quarter. The Cardinals responded with a quick drive of its own that was capped off with a 3-yard touchdown run by Sumrall to make the score 21-14 at halftime for Longview Pine Tree.

The Pirates used another big run, this time a 36-yard score, to extend the lead to 28-14 over BC early in the third quarter, but the Cardinals would respond with another nice drive. This time quarterback Hutch Bearden punched the ball into the end zone on a 2-yard run to trim the Pirates lead to 28-20 after the failed extra point.

The Cardinals defense made a big play when it was needed with an interception of the Pirates quarterback to give BC the ball deep in Pine Tree territory. A few plays later Bearden scored on a 1-yard run and, after the successful two point pass conversion, the game was tied 28-28 at the end of the third quarter.

As explosive as Pine Tree had been all game, the Pirates utilized a methodical, time consuming drive that started in the third quarter and chewed up nearly half of the fourth quarter. The Pirates scored on a 13-yard pass to go back on top, 35-28.

The teams traded possessions, but it was the Pirates defense forcing the Cards into a turnover on downs that ended the game.

The Cardinals finish the season with an 8-3 record and as the third place team in District 10-4A Division 1.

surface. These baits are perfect for working shallow shell because they dive down to the shell and rattle around in there as they are being retrieved. Once you feel the shell you can stop reeling and the bait will actually back up and start floating to the surface, this is when you get a high percentage of your strikes. That subtle motion once you have come into contact with the bottom is tough for fish to resist. I know these baits are some of my favorites for catching redfish, they just inhale them. Some of the more productive models I have ever fished are the Slapstick by Bill Lewis, Thunderstick, Rogues, Crystal Minnows and the Long Cast Minnow by Rapala. In order to fish these baits you don't need a ton of finesse or a secret pattern to catch fish, these lures are very user friendly. Using basically the same action you use working a topwater plug you just point your rod tip towards the surface of the water and either reel in with a constant retrieve or twitch the bait with brief pauses as the lure comes in contact with the bottom. The built in action and sound will take care of the rest, it's hard to work them wrong. I have found that taking the split rings off the nose and tying a loop knot seems to help the action and keeps the rings from fouling on the bill of the plug. If and when you get caught up in shell most of the time the lure will come free when given a little bit of slack. Even when you break one off about 80% of the time the lure will float to the surface where you can retrieve it and use it again. How's that for a confidence boost?

Resting in the Bigness of Jesus

desiringGod.org

It was an intimidating setting. I sat before the ordination council with only my Bible and statement of faith. For several hours, ten men questioned me about my beliefs. The time became a blur, but there was one moment that stuck out among the rest. Dr. Duane Litfin — former college president, pastor, and professor — took a moment to clear his throat. He began by complimenting my statement of faith. It was orthodox. It was clear. It was good. He then transitioned to make his point.

“Don’t neglect the lordship of Jesus Christ,” he said. He went on to say that my statement of faith was relatively thin on the deity of Christ compared to the humanity of Christ. He emphasized how transformative the lordship of Jesus had been for him, sharing that he had failed to fully grasp this doctrine for the first 25 years of his ministry. And he exhorted me, young pastor and ordinand: grasp the bigness of Jesus.

I have long forgotten most of the ordination exam. But this moment still resounds: grasp the lordship of Jesus Christ. Jesus is not only our Savior; he is Lord over all creation.

Our Human Christ

In recent years, many good books have emphasized the humanity of Jesus. He is gentle and lowly. He is tenderhearted. He will not blow out the smoldering wick or break the bruised reed. He is kind, gracious, and meek. He sympathizes with us in our weaknesses. He is patient and long-suffering toward his people. His steadfast love never ceases. Yes and amen. These biblical truths are worth rejoicing in and meditating upon. Praise God for the patient, gentle love of Christ for sinners!

But could this emphasis on Jesus’s humanity lead some of us to neglect his divine nature? Do we think of Jesus only like us? Is he the friend who hears our confessions and offers merely comfort? It’s natural for us to dwell on Jesus’s humanity since we too are human. Jesus did come to earth as man, died as man, rose as man, and now reigns as man. The incarnation is a glorious truth. He is Immanuel, God with us.

And Jesus is the God-man. Do we subtly and unintentionally undercut the divinity of our Lord? Do we accidentally minimize his divine nature?

Good News of Divinity

Jesus’s humanity is indeed good news — but not apart from his divine nature. Yes, we marvel that God sent his Son into our world. But before the incarnation, the divine Son was there. He has been working since eternity past and works now in redemptive history.

The Jesus we know was instrumental in the world’s creation: “By him all things were created, in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities — all things were created through him and for him” (Colossians 1:16). Nothing exists apart from the creative power of Christ. Right now, he holds all things together — every atom and molecule (Colossians 1:17).

Jesus, like the Father, is the great I Am (John 8:58). Jesus reveals the Father. He is not some poor facsimile, a knockoff version of the original. Rather, as the eternally begotten Son, Jesus is distinct from the Father yet fully God, perfectly revealing the Father’s nature (John 14:9). “He is the image of the invisible God” (Colossians 1:15).

Isn’t it remarkable when paradoxical qualities hold together? We delight to see a strong and intimidating man who speaks tenderly with his wife and children. We admire a petite woman who exhibits feminine courage in the face of fear. A celebrity who takes an interest in a lowly stranger makes us marvel. A man with great riches who lives generously and sacrificially impresses us.

So it is with Jesus’s humanity and divinity, perfectly embodied together. Imagine the disciples in the boat with Jesus as the storm raged. Their fear dissipated when they realized that Jesus commands the wind and waves. Their anxiety over having no food left when they discovered that Jesus feeds thousands from a few loaves. This was no mere teacher, but God in the flesh. The Lord of the universe allowed wicked men to crucify him for his Father’s glory and the redemption of mankind. Marvel at the humanity and divinity of Jesus.

will lead the armies of heaven with a sword protruding from his mouth, treading down his enemies in the fury of the wrath of God (Revelation 19:11–16). This Almighty One is King of kings and Lord of lords.

Resting in His Lordship

To this day, I find myself needing to come back to Dr. Litfin’s words again and again: grasp the lordship of Jesus Christ. I default to Christ as near, comforting, forgiving, and kind. But those qualities are good news because he is the one who holds me fast in his sovereign hand. He made heaven and earth and every cell in my body — even if some turn cancerous against me. He ordains all my days — even the ones when I walk through the valley of death. He knows my frame — even when it crumbles under external pressure. He numbers my days — whether they are many or cut short. He is Lord, and he draws near to his beloved children.

So, how does Christ’s lordship transform how you approach him? Hold together his divinity and humanity. Meditate upon his greatness, power, and holiness, even as you rest in his gentleness, kindness, and long-suffering. Let the truth of his humanity and divinity lead you to entrust yourself to his tender and sovereign hands. There is no better place to be. Come and rest in Jesus, a big God who deflates of fire. Clothed in a robe dipped in blood, he

Recovering His Lordship

Recovering the lordship of Jesus is critical in our man-centered age. Jesus’s lordship makes his humanity a comfort. If Jesus is only human, he is weak and powerless. He can sympathize with us in our weaknesses but cannot grant forgiveness. He can try to give comfort but cannot save. He offers us a shoulder to cry on, but he cannot wipe away every tear and bring us into his heavenly kingdom. He is patient but cannot rescue us from the wrath to come. He can encourage us but cannot bring real hope to bear upon our lives.

But when we recover his lordship, we see the wonder of his incarnation. Jesus is God incarnate. The Creator and Sustainer of everyone and everything condescends to his people. The Holy One who dwells in unapproachable light beckons us into his presence. The fearsome and awe-inspiring Lord, who rules and reigns over all, is gentle and lowly with his own.

His name is Faithful and True. He will return to make war, his eyes like flames of fire. Clothed in a robe dipped in blood, he
